

Assets

Women often trail behind men in account and land ownership. Ensuring women have identity cards allows them the opportunity to access services and finance. Ownership of a financial account and land help women escape poverty and protect them from economic shocks.

Account ownership at a financial institution or with a mobile-money-service provider by sex and income group

Source: Demirguc-Kunt et al., 2018, Global Financial Inclusion Database, World Bank.

Saved any money in the past year by sex and income group

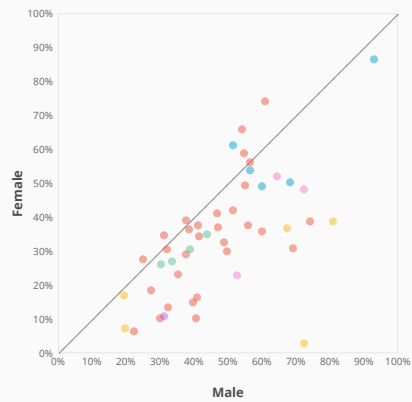

Source: Global Findex database

Men and women who own a house or land by sex

Latin America & Caribbean (Green), South Asia (Yellow), Sub-Saharan Africa (Red), Europe & Central Asia (Pink), Middle East & North Africa (Purple), East Asia & Pacific (Cyan), North America (Grey)

House: % who own a house (alone, jointly, both alone and jointly)

Land: % who own land (alone, jointly, both alone and jointly)

Source: Demographic and Health Surveys (DHS)

The law grants spouses equal administrative authority over assets during marriage

Sons and daughters have equal rights to inherit assets from their parents

Equal administrative authority over assets ■ Yes ■ No

Sons and daughters have equal rights to inherit assets ■ Yes ■ No

Hover over each square to see the data for specific economies

Source: Demographic and Health Surveys (DHS)

Data retrieved from World Bank Gender Data Portal
<https://genderdata.worldbank.org/topics/assets/>